

Global Programs Day

Thursday, September 13, 2018

LUNCH SEMINAR

What Can the Veterinary Community Do to Address the Impacts of Climate Change?

12:00pm-1:00pm
1020 Valley Hall

Lunch provided – RSVP here for lunch by Sept.10

Veterinarians in all types of clinical, private and public practices, industry, government, research and public/global health will be increasingly impacted by environmental change. As health professionals and community members we need to be informed and prepared to address current and future climate change that can facilitate disease transmission, increase natural disasters (wildfires, severe weather events), threaten food security and impact animal welfare. Join us for an interactive hour of short presentations and discussion with veterinary experts:

Patricia Conrad – Welcome and Introduction

Panel:

- Krystle Reagan: Small Animal Internal Medicine – Infectious disease
- John Madigan: Equine Medicine – Disaster Response
- Wondwossen Gebreyes: Food Security – Global One Health Approach
- Woutrina Smith: Epidemiologist – Panel Moderator

Please come to share experiences, ask questions, and consider climate challenges.

EVENING PRESENTATIONS

SVM Students Around the World

5:00pm-6:30pm
1020 Valley Hall

Dinner provided – RSVP here for dinner by Sept.10

Join us for dinner and an exciting evening of presentations and amazing videos from 11 veterinary students and a MPVM student who received International Summer Externships and Global Fellowships to explore professional opportunities around the world in 2018. Hear about their experiences working in Tanzania, Sri Lanka, Ireland, South Africa, Scotland, Brazil and Costa Rica.